Tutoring Experience

I have been tutoring for 9 years, working closely with IB, A-Level, and IGCSE students to improve their understanding of English and literature. My experience spans across different regions, including Canada, the UK, and Asia, where I've guided students in achieving excellent results in their exams.

In addition to school-level curriculums, I've helped students enhance their essay writing, analytical skills, and exam preparation techniques. My background in theatre production has allowed me to incorporate creative approaches into lessons, making literature engaging and relatable for all students.

I have also worked with students applying to university-level programs, supporting them with their personal statements and preparing them for interviews. Many of my students have successfully gained admission to top institutions, reflecting the comprehensive support I provide.
